

UNT MARCHING PERCUSSION CAMP - June 19-22, 2006 - University of North Texas Percussion Department

The UNT Marching Percussion Camp trains high school percussionists each summer on the UNT campus in the tradition of the world renowned North Texas Drumline. Camp members will expand their knowledge and enjoyment of marching and percussion instruments with an average of 10 hours a day of instruction and performance. Expert guidance and instruction will be tailored to both strengthen and challenges abilities at the beginner, intermediate, and advanced levels. The Marching Percussion Camp receives generous support from Dynasty Percussion and Innovative Percussion.

The teaching faculty is composed of Drumline alumni who are instructors for high school, college, and Drum Corps International programs. Guest clinicians and UNT percussion faculty clinics are also provided each year. Camp members are presented with the unique opportunity to participate in a group experience which focuses on individual creativity and leadership. The final camp presentation features performances by all of the individual drumline sections as well as a mass drumline.

The registration form and a nontransferable deposit of $100 (applicable to the total cost of camp) must be sent to: Laura Ford - University of North Texas, College of Music, P.O.
