

University of North Texas Conductors Collegium

June 14-25, 2010

Eugene Migliaro Corporon – University of North Texas
Dennis Fisher – University of North Texas
James Jordan – Westminster Choir College
Alan McMurray – University of Colorado

The Collegium presents the opportunity for instrumental music educators of all levels from around the world to meet and discuss common goals, shared concerns and practical solutions with colleagues, performers, and composers. The format is designed to allow maximum flexibility in examining topics that are of paramount interest to the participants. The goal of the Collegium is to help participants broaden their perspectives by providing an environment that creates a positive opportunity for dialogue, investigation and exchange. Brochure coming soon!

As many as 40 participants will be selected to rehearse and perform on one of four concerts with the North Texas Wind Symphony. Comments regarding rehearsal approach and conducting pedagogy will be made on videotape. Non-conducting participants will follow scores and listen to the clinician via headphones, allowing all to learn the repertoire and stay integrally involved as the rehearsals progress. Assigned concert repertoire will be selected from the book Teaching Music through Performance in Band, Volume 8, grade 2 and 3, (GIA 2010). In addition, Eugene Corporon, Dennis Fisher and guests will offer lectures and lead discussions throughout the twelve-day session on a variety of related subjects. Morning sessions will focus on masterworks as well as rehearsal skills and conducting technique.
